First Post – A Note to my Future Self

I joined Functor Network to record my progress in teaching myself various areas of mathematics I find relevant for my research (HANK & MathFin). The plan is to write summaries of monographs that I can quickly refer back to when needed.

Hopefully, providing updates regularly here also forces me to not slack off when motivations are low. Should I ever read this post again in the future, I hope you are still on your way of becoming ever better at math.
